R.I.P. Chris Blore 1946 -2019

Our friend, Chris, sadly lost the fight against his illness on Wednesday 1st May.

Chris and his wife, Margaret, have two daughters and four grandchildren. He was very proud of his family and would take every opportunity to show you the latest photo's that had come through to his phone.

He was a very modest person who didn't always recognise just how many friends he really had and how much we all cared for him.

For those of us who were lucky enough to have played with him, he was a great musician, very generous and never complained if you inadvertently "stepped on his toes" when playing. He had no secrets with his musical skills and was always happy to pass on tips that he had learnt over many years of gigging.

I am sure we will never forget Chris, who even on his sick bed would say that if we didn't continue to play and enjoy our lives he would come back and haunt us. So please the next time you are playing give a small thought to Chris.

On the 05th June, the Molesey Con Club will be holding a tribute evening in memory of Chris, you are all welcome to attend.
